EN 102: English Composition II

Syllabus

Lecture Hours/Credits: 3/3

Catalog Description

Prerequisites: C or better in EN 101

English 102 is a genre course. The first goal is to introduce the student to various genre forms – short story, drama, poetry – for the sake of a better understanding of them in critically analyzing these works of literature. The second major goal is related to the writing skills mastered by the student in English 101. Since English 102 is also a writing course, the student is expected to develop the ability to write logically structured critical explications of literary works.

Textbook and Course Materials

It is the responsibility of the student to confirm with the bookstore and/or their instructor the textbook, handbook, and any other materials required for their specific course and section.

Topical Outline

English 102 is a genre course focusing on short story, drama, and poetry. (Note: professors are not required to follow a particular sequence in presenting the three genre forms.) Throughout the semester students will not only be introduced to the effective ways of critically reading a work of literature. They will also be introduced to the techniques of writing a brief critical explication and will be guided through the various steps in the construction of a research paper. A tentative working schedule might be as follows:

- Diagnostic essay; introduction to the short story; discussion of a variety of short stories; first critical reaction paper.
- Introduction to drama; discussion of a variety of plays; second critical relation paper.
- Introduction to poetry; discussion of a variety of poems; third critical reaction paper.

(Throughout the above various steps of the research paper would be discussed: topic card, thesis statement card, tentative outline, the final project; there would also be the utilization of the library's excellent presentation on the research project and the use of electronic resources.)
