TIME: 0830 hrs. to 1530 hrs.

CLASS SIZE: 35

FEE: $45.00

LOCATION: Rowan College at Gloucester County Fire Academy, Clarksboro

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Are your apparatus operators truly qualified to drive the emergency equipment in your station? Are you in a position to fully defend your agency's procedures, policies, and guidelines? Can you defend your driver's training program? Hardly a day goes by that, somewhere in the United States, a chief finds himself or herself, struggling to answer these questions while seated in a court of law.

CEVO IV is a must attend program for both experienced drivers and those who wish to drive emergency vehicles. This highly interactive program is intended to be part of your agency's comprehensive driver training or recertification program.

What you will learn: Defensive driving techniques, how to respond to different traffic situations, the benefits and limitations of driving with lights and sirens, driving in adverse weather conditions, and lastly, participants will come to fully understand the chain of events that generally lead up to an accident by analyzing realistic case studies.

The instructor for this program brings experience and knowledge spanning thirty years. Robert Hill has developed driver training programs, was a former commercial semi-truck owner and driver, and has experience as a former driver trainer for Smith & Solomon School of commercial truck driving.

*EMT CEU's are pending approval.
